By WENDY HANSCOM

The Maine Department of Environmental protection has once again cited Gordon's Tire of Greenwood for several violations of its license and issued new deadlines for the company--demanding that it bring its Rabbit Road site into compliance with Maine's solid waste management rules.

Environmental Specialist Michael Parker conducted the latest inspection tour of the facility on March 31. Parker is the fourth DEP representative in less than a year to handle Peter and Susan Gordon's case.

DEP deadlines and enforcement threats are not new to the Gordons. The agency has noted numerous violations at the site in the past and set a number of deadlines and directives for the facility to meet. For the most part, however, the deadlines have not been met--and the DEP has failed to take any action.

For example, prior to granting the Gordons' state license in August, DEP commissioner Dean Marriott personally assured Greenwood selectmen that when the license was granted the agency would see to it that the Gordons complied with its terms.

"We will see to it that they are complied with--both the license and the consent agreement," Marriott promised.

When signing the consent agreement, the Gordons agreed to reduce the size of the largest tire pile to 10,000 square feet by Nov. 1, 1991.

However, a DEP inspection on that date found that the pile had not been reduced, but added to.

For months the DEP took no action on the violations.

Finally in February, Marriott said the DEP had chosen to exercise

SCHOOL DISTRICT BUDGET MEETING NEXT THURSDAY

The annual SAD #44 budget meeting is scheduled for May 28 at 7 p.m. in the Telstar High School Helen Berry Auditorium. Voters will be asked to approve a general fund budget of $5,966,800--up 1.1 percent from last year.

District voters approved $133,306 for Adult Education last year. This year they will be asked to approve $142,213.

If both items pass, the local assessment to the five member towns will be $3,201,351--up 2.5 percent from last year.

"prosecutorial discretion" and would not be taking any action in the matter.

The Gordons began piling tires at the Rabbit Road site three years ago. The Greenwood fire chief estimates there are close to a million tires on the site now. The Gordons, however, continue to claim it is a "storage and recycling facility" and not a tire dump.

It's been a busy business week--

Eric Paul to buy GAMM II

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has agreed in principle to a lease-purchase offer from local businessman Eric Paul for the former GAMM II property at the Airport Industrial Park.

The terms of the offer call for Paul to lease the 21,000-square-foot industrial building for two years at an annual lease fee of $23,000, and to have the option, at the end of the second year, to purchase the property for $175,000.

The town purchased the property, which includes 4.7 acres of land, in December for $146,500. The property had previously been assessed at $490,000 and had been on the market for two years at an asking price of $250,000.

The terms of Paul's offer will more than cover the town's cost in the project, according to Town Manager Madeleine Henley and Dan Reich, chairman of the Airport Industrial Park Committee, which assisted the town in marketing the property.

Henley said that if the town is successful in its application for a federal grant for the project (the application is still pending) then the town will net approximately $30,000 a

Skiway again sets records

The Sunday River Ski Resort in Bethel ceased skiing operations for the season on Sunday, May 17 after shattering previous attendance records and posting new sales records in all aspects of its operation.

Summer at the resort promises to be busy as well: construction is underway on the new Summit Hotel project, and the resort will invest nearly $2 million in improvements to snowmaking, trails, and skier services. In addition, the resort's Mountain Bike Park will open for the season on June 26.

Sunday River posted its twelfth straight record year for attendance, with skier visits totaling 502,507, representing a 14.5 percent increase. The total places Sunday River in the number two slot for eastern skier visits for the second year in a row. Overall revenues at the resort were up nearly 17 percent.

Spurred by a large increase in group-sales business and the construction of the Snow Cap Inn during the summer of 1991, lodging at the resort increased by 35.5 percent. Additionally, the resort's central toll-free reservations service, which books skiers into independent lodges in Bethel and the surrounding communities as well as on-mountain properties, saw a record increase in off-mountain lodging bookings of

Savages close Boiler Room

By WENDY HANSCOM

The debate over noise levels from live bands at the Boiler Room Restaurant in Bryant Pond has been stilled.

The restaurant served its last dinner on Mother's Day and closed its nightclub with a final band performance last Saturday.

Owners Ron and Rick Savage said overseeing the restaurant was time consuming and conflicted with other business interests. Complaints about the restaurant played no part in its closing, they said.

"We bought the restaurant a year ago with the intention of selling it," Rick said. "And if we didn't sell it in a year, we'd decide then what to do with it."

Ron and Cindy Savage have bought Rick's interest in the restaurant and plan renovate the restaurant space and live there, Rick said. The building was originally the boiler room for Mann's Mill cloth-spin factory.

Noise from the restaurant has been a problem, neighbors claim, since August, when the Savages began featuring live music.

In September, three of its neighbors went to a selectmen's meeting and complained. By November, a

Resturant/brewery planned

By MARK SHANAHAN

The president of the Merrill Company, a Portland-based engineering and development firm, informed the Bethel Planning Board Wednesday he expects to know within two weeks whether he will establish a 100-seat restaurant on the Sunday River Road at the base of the Sunday River Ski Resort.

Heinie Merrill said he is hoping within the next two weeks to purchase a six- to 12-acre parcel of land on the Bethel end of the road leading to the Newry ski resort.

Speaking Thursday, Merrill said, "I'll probably have something more concrete in a week or two."

Merrill said he served for three and a half years as vice president of planning and development for the Sugarloaf Mountain Corporation before going into business for himself in 1988.

At Wednesday's meeting, Merrill told the board the two-story restaurant, which will include a 30-seat bar and brewery, will be open in time for the winter ski season if, as expected, the property purchase is consummated within the next two weeks.

"We're working very hard to get a program together which would

And finally--Chinese food

After decades of culinary cultural deprivation, the Bethel area may soon have an Oriental restaurant to call its own.

Hoeng Tsang Wan, owner of the Ocean Pearl in Oxford and another Oriental restaurant in Portland, has leased the former Pleasant River Restaurant in West Bethel and plans to open a Chinese Restaurant there.

The new restaurant will be called the Pleasant River Chinese Restaurant and will feature reasonably priced lunches, dinners and take out.

The 56-seat Pleasant River Restaurant closed its doors in January of this year, after being in business for little more than a year.

Hoeng has applied for a liquor license for the new restaurant and is currently adapting the existing kitchen to prepare Chinese cuisine, according to Barbara Dumont, co-owner of the Pleasant River Motel.

Plans call for the new restaurant to be open by June 15.

The three-day event was an affiliation trial for the Western Maine Schutzhund Club, which earned its national affiliation by hosting the successful

Editorial Emeritus

Let me offer belated congratulations to the recipients of the annual awards of recognition presented by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at Sunday River Ski Resort's White Cap Lodge on May 5.

It is always a pleasure to witness recognition being given to those people who have "labored long in the vineyards" and would probably have continued to do so whether their efforts were publicly acknowledged or not.

Having been acquainted with many of the recipients or with their families for many years I am aware of the effort and dedication that they apply to any of their endeavors. I am sure that those whom I have known for a lesser time and those I have not known personally are equally deserving as manifested by the recognition of their peers and by the chamber.

Again my congratulations to this year's award recipients: Senior Citizen Award, Arthur Gilbert; Student Citizenship Awards, Dustin Howe and Casey Swan; Henry H. Hastings Citizenship Award, Jane and Richard Hosterman; Employee of the Year Awards--Musa Brown of the Bethel Citizen, Robert Hinckley Sr. of Bethel Furniture Stock, and Jack Cronin of the Sudbury Inn; Special Recognition Award, Randy Bennett, author of "Bethel, Maine: An Illustrated History;" and Business of the Year, Gilbert Manufacturing, Duane Gilbert.

Going back some 29 years to April of 1963, I feel that something should be said about Musa Brown and her affiliation with the Bethel Citizen. Musa had been working part-time at the Citizen for about five years at that time as well as working in the hot lunch program in the Bethel schools. Following the death of my father, Carl L. Brown, that spring she came to work full-time at the Citizen.

For the next nearly 21 years and a half while the Brown family still owned the paper, she was a valued--no, invaluable staff member. She was the bookkeeper, subscription department, proofreader and salesperson at the local print shop. Countless times without Musa the Brown brothers, her husband Edwin, Donald, and myself would have been in dire straits indeed.

When the "Brown Family at the Bethel Citizen" received the Henry H. Hastings Citizenship Award in 1984 after nearly 57 years of family ownership Musa had been an important "cog in the wheel" at the Citizen for over one third of that time. As she received her award on May 5 at Sunday River, in spirit at least, all of the members of the extended family of the "Citizen Browns" were present and saying, "It's about time."

In closing let me express congratulations and appreciation to the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and all other individuals and organizations involved in providing an evening that the award recipients should long remember.

Letters to the Editor:

FLAG'S NOT RACIST

To the Editor:

We've been coming to Bethel for some 38 years and I've never met any racist groups. I don't think the people of Bethel or adults should be blamed for any symbolism of a flag. I feel like the principal, Ted Davis, and social studies teacher, Rodney Abbott, could open a book and read about any flag that was used--all you have to do is read the papers and you know where all the race riots are. I can fly a Rebel flag anytime I want to and I don't belong to any hate group, skinheads, Nazi group or the Klu Klux Klan. Ask the question, who is racist?

REBEL FLAG STOOD FOR TREASON, 600,000 DEAD

To the Editor:

I take extreme exception to Andrew Benson's letter and his attempt to justify his attitudes towards the Confederate flag. Nonwithstanding of the NAACP's concerns, that flag represents a calamitous act of wanton treason which resulted in the slaughter of 600,000 Americans--the largest butchery in U.S. military history (12 times the death toll in Vietnam) over the issue of freedom for all Americans.

It was that flag which flew over southern capitals as they declared secession from the Union.

It was that flag which flew over Ft. Sumter after the attack on the Union garrison stationed there, the same Union force that deliberately pulled out of Charleston to the fort in the harbor to "prevent the effusion of bloodshed" in hopes of a peaceful resolution to the secession crisis.

It was that flag which rallied men and boys to bear arms against and to assault the government, the union, and the people of the United States.

Arguments have been made that the central issue of the war was not slavery, but state's rights. What controversy brought the issue of state's rights to the forefront? Was it not slaveholding? A brief review of history shows that the reactionaries of the South feared the growing political and economic power of the increasingly anti-slavery North and saw the election of Lincoln as a sign that they were about to be taken in a radically different direction. In his inauguration address, Lincoln appealed directly to the South, invoking the "better angels of our nature" to remind us that "we must not become enemies."

Those who waved that flag chose instead to shed blood in defense of keeping human beings as legal property to be bought and sold at will, and to separate families for the purpose of economic profit.

Mary Chestnut, the wife of a Senator from South Carolina and a friend of Confederate President Jefferson Davis and his wife, wrote of the hypocrisy of many "gentlemen" plantation owners who fancied themselves roll models while many slave children looked strikingly like their own.

A note long forgotten by mainstream history is that every southern state raised troops and sent them north to fight for the Union army to restore the country. My point is this: the Civil War, much the same as the Confederate flag, was not really an issue of North vs. South, but rather one of human dignity vs. oppression.

I am fully aware that my opinion may be unusually strong, but I find any defense and justification of wholesale slaughter by means of treason in the name of maintaining status quo absolutely reprehensible. No matter what you may rationalize its meaning to be, the true essence of the Confederate flag is treason and oppression.

CHOICES, CHOICES, CHOICES--Mary and Paul Billings of Bryant Pond have plenty of selection as they cruise the aisle of the new Locke Mills Market Place, which held its grand opening Monday morning. The new store is one of five corporate stores opened in the last year and a half by Associated Grocers of Maine. William Hoskins, president of the Gardiner based distribution company, said his firm's marketing strategy calls for establishing stores "on the fringes" of the areas served by Maine's larger chains. He said the company believes its experience and resources will enable it to make a go of the new venture--in a building where three former grocery stores have failed. Store manager Bill Cronin said the Market Place currently employs 36 people, six of them full time. The employees were selected from over 400 people who applied at a recent job fair, he said. Don Taylor, of Early Real Estate, which shares the building with the grocery store, wished his new neighbor the best of luck--"I've sold the building four times," Taylor said. "And I don't want to have to sell it again."

Rest assured, the term "Rebel" has many connotations, including "patriot" as of old, when people struggled and sacrificed against incredible odds for a higher level of justice and liberty in the colonies, and I hope Telstar always remains "The Rebs!" The Confederate flag, however, has no place of fond remembrance concerning these ideals.

THE PROBLEM IS BUSH

To the Editor:

In response to Mike Brown's article in the May 13 issue of the Bethel Citizen referencing the candidacy of H. Ross Perot, Mr. Brown missed the fundamental and very simple reason for the Texas billionaire's popularity: President Bush.

This administration's benign neglect of the working poor, the fundamental lack of comprehension of the recessions' depth, the inability to relate in the simplest terms the middle-class struggle of day-to-day living, the vacillation of position on domestic issues, and the recanting of his no-new-tax pledge will cause millions to seek new leadership. A decent and honest man, the president remains insulated from the anguish and disappointment of his constituency by staff and party loyalists pressing the party line.

Mr. Perot may not be the answer to America's need for leadership and direction. But by not owing to any political machine or the professional party operatives, and by speaking to the voter and not at the voter, Mr. Perot is a fresh breeze in a barn full of manure.

On election day I urge every citizen not to cast their vote based on orchestrated shouting of the two parties, but by the quiet desire to make their single voice heard. Yes each vote cast is counted, Mr. Brown, and the only wasted vote is that which remains uncashed.

We Americans need to elect a leader with vision and an agenda. If the president can recapture the confidence of the electorate and demonstrate that he possesses a vision and can lead us domestically as competently as he has internationally, ly, he may well earn his second term. Otherwise the voters will tell Mr. Bush what his staff and party loyalists have not: "George Bush is no Ronald Reagan!"

NEWS SHOWS GOD'S WRATH

To the Editor:

Reference to May 6 front page article "Plans dropped for Christian Youth Camp on Twitchell Pond."

Very interesting for me--who for years wrote a weekly column in the Citizen--"Walking with Jesus Christ."

In addition to the front page article: Rowdyism plagues apt. complex. The sky above and trash below--augmented by Senator William's remarks--"Maine seafood, safe to eat" on page two, and kids have a friend in court, re. family abuse etc. "children fallen through the cracks."

I wonder how the water quality of the pond and the prospect of increased traffic on the road to the camp qualifies the rejection of bringing up children in the atmosphere of Christian learning and living.

This rejection of Godly influence is being perpetuated throughout our nation--see the result of forbidden Bible reading and prayer time in our public schools. Reams of written statistics and graphs show that the rejection of God in our society with resultant rowdyism, drugs, alcohol, sex outside of marriage--these are only a part of God's wrath upon our nation.

From my point of view we have lost it--the evangelical thrust of the church has been in part weakened with many churches--preachers talking about God--with no salvation message.

Once nations prosperous--and happy are now gone--have we too "lost it?" Such as the plans of a Christian Camp on Twitchell Pond?

NO-JUSTICE SYSTEM

To the Editor:

What has just happened in Los Angeles via the Rodney King travesty of justice, is not only isolated to only the West Coast. It is also not just a raw racism either but a major flaw in our criminal justice system that definitely exists here in Maine as well, and has for many years. An extremely large number of us within the state's prison system are living proof that attests to this fact.

A state justice system that assigns court-appointed lawyers, in state courts, with state prosecutors, state judges, state venue changes, state orchestrated biased rules, and even state picked jurors that work for the state, tends to stack the deck against the innocent citizen.

The parade will feature the Telstar High School marching band, fire trucks, scouts and the Ellis River Riders.

A brief ceremony will be held after the parade on the Common. At 10:30 a.m. the parade will assemble at Kelly's Auto Part's parking lot on Mechanic Street.

The parade will feature the Telstar High School marching band and an array of scouts, fire trucks, Legionnaires and others.

The parade ends at the Bethel common. The memorial program will include musical selections, Miss Poppy, the Gettysburg Address, the Post Commander's address, guest speaker Harry Faulkner, a salute to the dead and the Star Spangled Banner.

Program participants will be served refreshments after the program at the Legion Hall.

WEST PARIS

At 11 a.m. the parade will assemble on Maple Street. It will feature fire trucks, antique cars, the Oxford Hills Junior High Marching Band, horse drawn surreys and wagons, Tri-Town Rescue, church groups, school children and more.

The parade will travel down Main Street, pause to salute the large flag hung across the street, and then travel to the bridge over the Little Androscoggin.

At the bridge, memorial wreaths will be thrown into the water to salute those who served and died at sea.

The parade will then turn and march to the West Paris Community Cemetery. There, guest speaker Rev. Lloyd Waterhouse will deliver the Memorial Day address, followed by a gun salute and taps.

Marchers will then return to the West Paris Memorial Monument on Main Street. Members of the West Paris American Legion will decorate the memorial.

After the parade, refreshments will be served at the West Paris Grange to band members and young marchers.

WOODSTOCK

At 1 p.m. a memorial ceremony will be held at the honor roll near the grange hall.

The program will feature a reading of General Logan's address and the Gettysburg address.

The parade will leave from the grange hall at 1:30 p.m. and travel to the Lakeside Cemetery and back.

The parade will feature the Telstar High School Marching Band, the Jackson-Silver Legion Post color guard, Bryant Pond Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, scouts, school children and more.

ANDOVER

At 2:30 p.m. the parade will begin at the Andover Elementary School. Marchers will go down Pine Street, to Church Street and then up Main Street to the Common.

MEMORIAL FENCE WORK COMPLETE—Richard Duka of Hanover Iron Works and his helper Pat Gallan replace the wrought iron fence around Bethel's Main Street Civil War monument last week. Duka restored the fence's original cast iron scroll works. He then constructed a new steel framework to attach the scroll works to. The Bethel Rotary picked up the bill for the restoration work. Here Rotarians John Head and Robert Conant watch while Duka replaces the fence. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

WALK A WETLAND

May is American Wetlands Month and in Maine that means celebrating the beauty and value of approximately 25 percent of the state's land area. As part of the observance, the Maine Department of Environmental Protection, in cooperation with the Maine Association of Wetland Scientists, has scheduled "wetland walks" at various locations throughout the state.

Each walk will be guided by one or more professionals and will offer an informal opportunity to learn about as well as enjoy this tremendous resource.

As of this date, the schedule is as follows: Wells/Kennebunk area, Saturday, May 16, Sunday, May 24 and 31 at 1 p.m. For more information, contact Henrietta List, 646-1555.

Bangor/Old Town area: Wednesday, May 27, 6:30 p.m. For more information, contact Wende Rosier, 827-5938.

Augusta/Waterville area: Saturday, May 30, 8 a.m. Meet at the Camp destroyed in Albany fire

Ten fire trucks from Waterford, Stoneham and Bethel fought a woods fire in Albany Sunday afternoon that destroyed an abandoned camp and an acre of property, according to Brad Grover, Waterford fire chief.

Grover said another fire, inside a summer residence less than a quarter of a mile from the burned camp, was put out before it could spread to the second floor.

"There was some damage to the interior walls on the first floor of the residence. That was about it,"

Howard Johnson's Motor Inn parking lot off I 95 Exit 31A (Augusta) For more information, contact Bill Laflamme, 289-2111. For more information on wetlands, contact a representative of DEP's Land Bureau in Portland, 879-6300, Bangor, 941-4570, or Augusta, 289-2111.

On Sunday, May 10 at 1:44 a.m. police responded to a domestic disturbance on the Flat Road.

At 2 a.m., after a high speed chase, police charged a Bethel resident with: eluding an officer, driving to endanger, speeding—100 mph plus in a 50 mph zone and OUI.

On Monday, May 11 at 9:51 a.m. a Route 232 resident reported his neighbor's pigs were too noisy and disturbing him at night.

On Tuesday, May 12 at 5 p.m. police assisted at a fire scene on the Middle Intervale Road.

On Wednesday, May 13 a Grover Hill resident reported suspicious activity at a neighbor's house.

At 5:40 p.m. an Old Route 2 resident reported a suspicious vehicle near her home and an abandoned vehicle on the Flat Road.

On Thursday, May 14 at 2:30 p.m. a Bethel resident reported an accident in a Church Street parking lot.

On Friday, May 15 at 8:24 p.m. an unidentified caller reported suspicious people in a Railroad Street parking lot.

ALL-TERRAIN SAFETY

With spring, and a new recreational season at hand, the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife reminds all-terrain-vehicle users that knowledge of regulations and safe procedures is essential for safe and legal operation. Five people died in ATV accidents in Maine last year; 120 others were injured, some permanently.

The department offers about 60 instructional courses each year, normally attended by a total of 600 to 800 participants. "The unfortunate aspect is that many others are not taking advantage of these courses," Bennett said.

*ATVs must be registered before being ridden on someone else's land.

*Riders under 18 must wear a helmet, whether on their own or another person's property.

*Anyone under 16 is required to successfully complete a training program approved by the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife before operating an ATV on any land other than where they live, or land owned or leased by their parent or guardian.

*Anyone under age 15 must be under adult supervision while operating an ATV.

*Children under 10 must wear a helmet, stay on their own property, and be under adult supervision.

Bennett urged ATV operators "to use the buddy system, obtain landowners' permission, leave property as it was, and carry out all litter. Also, be sure to tell someone where you're going and when you plan to return."

Anyone interested in learning more about ATV safety courses may call or write the Safety Section, Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, Station #41, Augusta, Me. 04333. Telephone 289-5220.

ROCKIE GRAHAM

Graham fundraising and recycling event

People for Rockie Graham, the organizing committee for Rockie Graham who is a candidate for House District #49, will host a fundraising breakfast Saturday, May 23, at 9 a.m. at Mother's Restaurant. Those wishing to attend are urged to call campaign headquarters by Wednesday evening at 824-3427.

Following the breakfast, Ms. Graham will be at the Bethel Recycling Center assisting area residents with the sorting of recyclable. Graham said she has worked hard on setting up both Bethel's and the Oxford County recycling system and has a vested interest in seeing that they work well. According to Graham, "Proper sorting is key to the recycling program, because it insures that the town and the Oxford County Solid Waste Corporation will get maximum reimbursement from the recycling markets. Improperly sorted recyclables are considered to be contaminated and can cost the town money, instead of raising it."

Residents are invited to come to the recycling area between noon to 1 p.m. and meet the candidate, bring the family and enjoy the Swamp Capers, who will be performing music and the recycling skit, Zero Trash.

Boiler Room

group of 22 village residents had signed a petition calling for the town to form a committee to study any problems the restaurant may have been causing for its neighbors.

At the restaurant's liquor license renewal hearing in February, a dozen townspeople vented their frustrations about noise from the restaurant, but selectmen ultimately voted unanimously to sign the renewal request.

Before that meeting, town officials had put an article on the Town Meeting warrant to ask voters if they were interested in forming a committee to put together a noise ordinance. Voters approved setting up the committee.

So far, the noise ordinance committee has three members, and Town Manager Vern Maxfield is still looking for two more volunteers.

"I think we have to go ahead and work on the ordinance," he said.

Committee member and Boiler Room neighbor Jean Blanchard agreed. "It could happen again in other places," she said. "But because we don't have a police department it would be hard to enforce it, but I think it should be pursued."

Both Savages stressed that their neighbor's complaint had nothing to do with their decision to close. Each of them runs a construction company and said that work keeps them too busy to continue with the restaurant.

"The noise complaints are not the reason we're doing this," Rick said. "We have too much going on to continue in the restaurant business."

"I've got a very successful construction company and I'm going to pursue that," Ron said. "We weighed all the options, and I make more money in construction than in the restaurant business. It's purely a financial decision. It had nothing to do with the ordinance or liquor license renewal."

"We'll miss a lot of our customers," he said. "We're grateful to all of our customers and employees and wish them the best."

The Savages were employing eight full-time workers when the restaurant closed, Rick said.

132 percent.

"The increases clearly reflect a trend: Sunday River has become one of the hottest vacation destinations in eastern skiing," said Tim Cohee, vice president of marketing and sales at the resort. "The biggest increases have been during midweek, non-holiday periods. The resort is attracting more and more multi-day visitors who appreciate reliable, quality snow conditions and a wide diversity of terrain."

Summer projects at the resort include the construction of the Summit Hotel, to be located adjacent to the Meonstruck Ski Trail. The Summit will increase the resort's on-mountain bed base by 10 percent, to nearly 4,400. Additionally, several trail improvement projects are planned, including an upgrade to the snowmaking system that involves installation of a 16 inch air manifold across the resort's trail network.

"The manifold means greater energy efficiency," said snowmaking supervisor Bill Brown, "and it will also allow us to make snow on more trails within a given lift network at one time." The resort's snowmaking system has been ranked number one in New England for the past two years. In all, Sunday River has invested nearly $80 million in trails, lifts, snowmaking and lodging development since 1990.

In addition to the construction and improvements, the resort will open its Mountain Bike Park, which was the first lift-served mountain bike park in the east, on June 26 and 27. It will be open daily from July 4 through Labor Day, and then operate on weekends through Columbus Day.

Suzanne Brown honored at AVH

Suzanne Brown, R.N. of Bethel was named Employee of the Year at Androscoggin Valley Hospital in Berlin N.H.

Brown was honored at a special employee coffee reception last week, although she was not present to accept the award.

Brown has been employed at AVH since 1982. She works at the Riverside 3 medical-surgical nursing unit and was chosen employee of the year by hospital staff through a ballot process.

"Sue is an extremely conscientious and efficient nurse," said her supervisor Louise Coulombe. "She routinely does the little extras that mean a lot to patients. She is very well liked by our patients and many ask about her and for her. Sue is always cheerful and is a real morale booster for both patients and staff."

Brown received a plaque and a Chamber of Commerce gift certificate from the AVH Employee Welfare and Recreation Committee.

Her name will also be inscribed on a perpetual plaque with those of past winners, which is displayed in the hospital cafeteria.

Brown lives in West Bethel with her husband, Bob Brown.

TIMBER!—McWin, Inc. of Harrison has begun construction of a new septic system for the Maine Conservation School. Last week McWin workers Tom Scribner, Chris Hayward and Joel Gray began clearing the land for the leach field. State funds will finance most of the construction. Woodstock secured about $15,000 in grant funds from the Small Communities Grant program for the construction costs. The town also has grant money available to fix failed or failing residential septic systems. Some income guidelines do apply. Anyone interested in the program can contact the town office.

BUILDING BRIDGES—Crescent Park second-grader Joel Doyon and first-grader Cassie Mason reading a piece of their writing from the Building Bridges Project, with the help of fifth-grader Mariah Boelsma.

Building bridges project gives final presentation

Student participants in the Bethel Building Bridges Project celebrated a year of cross-age writing and reading projects at a final presentation for parents and families in the Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy.

The evening program was the culmination of two phases of the bridges project. During Phase I, students in Marguerite Graham's fall semester Writing I class at Gould Academy worked weekly with fifth grade writers in Linda Wheeler's fifth grade class at Crescent Park School. In Phase II, the same fifth grade students became literacy mentors for children in Elizabeth O'Meara and Tammy Mill's first and second grade classes.

As the evening presentation began each student received a copy of the Building Bridges booklet—a collection of writing from each group participating in the project. The students then lead the audience through the program, walking confidently to the front of the auditorium, speaking briefly about their experiences in the project, and reading a piece of their writing from the collection.

A grant to Gould Academy from the Bingham Trust for Charity enabled Graham to design the project and plan with teacher participants during the summer and fall of 1991. The teachers emphasize the importance of the planning and modeling which took place in both phases of the project. Throughout the year teachers shared their enthusiasm for writing and reading with their students, and each week older student participants brought their weekly writing to share with the younger student participants. Poet Paul Janeczko and storyteller David Nufeld also visited the schools and shared their works with students and teachers.

As the older students became models and mentors for the younger participants, the teacher/researchers observed, recorded, and shared observations and discoveries. Although the students participating in the project ranged in age from six to 18, students in both phases of the project kept journals of their weekly experiences, wrote and read regularly in any number of genres, and created portfolios of their work as readers and writers.

Journal entries and final case studies show similar comments from writers of all ages: "I have learned not to be nervous when I read my writing" (a CPS student); "I feel that I can read out loud to everybody now because they won't laugh" (a CPS student); "I think I can share now without being nervous" (a CPS student); "We're teaching them things like the Gould kids taught us. Now we're the older kids and they're the students—first and second graders—My kids listen to me and I listen to them" (CPS fifth grade student); "Now I understand how my teachers felt" (Gould Academy student).

As they reflect and review the notion of cross-age reading and writing, the teachers have said they believe their students have directly benefited from the project. Wheeler has seen her students challenged to overcome obstacles and excel in their changing roles from students (Phase I) to teachers (Phase II). Mills and O'Meara noted the ability of the older students to inspire their students as well as teach the first and second graders about a variety of genres in writing.

Graham highlights the respect the high school students at Gould gained for their fifth grade students and for the teaching profession. To quote one Gould student's journal entry, "When I saw them, they seemed excited and pulled out 20 pages of the story they had been working on. I was shocked. The story was unbelievable. These fifth graders have outrageous imaginations."

The kindergarten classes love working with Mrs. Alexander and the computer. They are finishing up their books about their trip to see "The Wizard of Oz." They are practicing writing the numbers 3 and 4. They are learning about the letter Y and making that letter with their bodies. On Thursday, Mr. Davis spent their library time reading to the class.

The first-graders are reading a poem, May Time Magic, and are learning about the month of May. They are working with attribute blocks in math, and are combining math and science. They weigh their eggs every three days, and are anxiously awaiting the hatchlings.

The second-graders of the week were: Krystal Farris, Jamie Foster, Joe Hakala, Josie Jewell, and Randy Johnson. Their class has prepared bean sticks--glued 10 beans on a stick--and then have been using them for counting by tens. They are studying words with the different sounds of this week. Also they have been reading books and watching filmstrips to learn about life in the early 1800s. This is in preparation for their trip to the Norlands on the 22nd.

The third-graders are going to the Norlands along with grade 2, and they are reading Little House on the Prairie, as well as other activities to prepare for the trip. They are learning how to write letters, how to set up a letter and are writing as a group to gather in ideas. They are reading about Paul Bunyan and tall tales, and they are writing stories to show exaggeration. In math they are working with geoboards as an introduction to geometry and as a method of problem solving. They have to experiment to see how many different ways they can create triangles and rectangles using only a given number of pegs.

Grade Four had a beautiful day for their trip to Augusta in the middle of the week. In class they are working with pattern blocks and fractions. In social studies they are studying the cities of the Rocky Mountain Region. Mr. Litchfield is reading "Tucker's Countryside" by George Seldon to the class. This is a sequel to the ever popular, "Cricket in Times Square."

My fifth-graders are reading a mixture of folk tales and fantasy stories. They are beginning their third book report project of the quarter. Parents, be forewarned, you are going to be asked to participate in this one. Details to come home soon. The children are working very hard to produce their best writing to show how they've grown and learned during the year. At this writing we are looking forward to Friday and the Art Show and bowling.

The sixth-graders welcomed special guests from Oxford Hills Junior High School this week. Principal Joseph Moore and guidance counselor, Carlene Treadwell, visited our school to talk to the students about junior high and to answer any questions they might have. The sixth-graders have a variety of feelings at this time of year. They are looking forward to going on, but part of themselves will miss the elementary school ... for awhile anyway.

Henry Bindbeutel and Matt Haas entertained and taught their classmates with their very creative World War II project. They designed and created a WW II game using map skills, various strategies, and knowledge of different countries to wage war and also to become allies. In math they are having fun with another problem solving unit called Thinker Math. With this unit, you have a short story problem with four or five blanks. Then you have the same number of answers to choose from. However, you do have to read carefully, apply some common sense and figure out which answer makes sense where. We are trying to keep thinking and working even if it looks as if it may warm up.

The Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District has been named "District of the Year" in the Education Conservation Districts.

The statewide competition took particular note of conservation programs led by "Kip" Fletcher, science instructor at Dixfield Middle School in Dixfield. Also cited was the leadership in conservation education provided by Jim Chandler, who was the chairman of Maine's 1991 Envirothon while also serving as District Manager for the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. The 1991 Maine Envirothon was a statewide success, involving teams from over 30 schools, from which Presque Isle High School went on to place second in the national competition. Other important conservation education programs administered by the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District include Kids for Trees, involving over 500 students from SAD #44 and SAD #72; a teacher training workshop held at Rumford High School for three school districts, and an Outdoor Education classroom held at the Maine Conservation School at Bryant Pond.

Two years ago, the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District placed second in education competition among all Conservation Districts, nationwide. Jim Chandler was able to travel to the National Association of Conservation Districts' annual convention in California to receive the award and to observe resource conservation practices at a number of locations en route.

NEW DEP PROGRAM AIMS AT IMPROVING SERVICE

As part of what it terms "a continuing effort to improve service delivery," the Maine Department of Environmental Protection has launched the Permit Assistance Program.

Expanding on a system used by the Land Bureau since 1988, the initiative has been activated in all four program bureaus (Air, Water, Land and Waste) as well as on a department-wide, multi-media basis. The goal is better communication to support a smoother, more efficient environmental regulatory process.

Under the program, one staff person in each bureau is designated to provide "permit assistance." This individual will help applicants understand the laws and regulations, explain the permitting process, provide and interpret forms, and refer applicants to the appropriate licensing and technical staff. By investing staff time "up front," DEP said it hopes to establish clear expectations on all sides, resulting in better applications that move through the process more quickly.

The same result is expected in instances where projects require multiples permits. When more than one bureau is involved, a staff person in the Office of Pollution Prevention will serve as coordinator, providing guidance to the applicants and alerting bureau personnel to the need for assistance.

THREE GOULD STUDENTS IN ALL-STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Three Gould Academy students have been selected from Maine's best high school age musicians for participation in the All-State Music Festival. Junior Chae-Kyung Jung of Seoul, Korea, will play the flute as a member of the orchestra. Sophomore Nedda Campbell of Harrison, will join the band with her flute, and senior Samantha Langlois of Bethel will sing with the chorus in the soprano section. The Festival will be held at the University of Maine at Orono from May 14 through 16.

This year's conductor is Patrick Smith of the Amherst, Mass. school system and Director of the Maine Summer Conference Senior Orchestra. He has chosen a program of challenging music--the Overture to "Suzanne's Secret" by Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari; Fantasia on "Greensleeves" by Ralph Vaughan Williams for strings and harps, and the finale to Symphony #2, Op. 73 by Johannes Brahms. "An experience you will remember for many years," declares orchestra manager, Charles Oehrtmann.

Loggers say local firm makes best use of raw materials

Bethel Furniture Stock has received the Outstanding Use of Wood Award given by the Northeastern Loggers' Association (NELA).

The company and its general manager and president, Leon Favreau, were given the award because of their efficiency in consistently producing a high quality product while getting a better than 50 percent increase in the yield from the wood used.

This was accomplished by using a unique hardwood bending process that was designed and built by the company.

The company was begun in 1957 by Leon's father Roger. Since the business passed to Roger's four children in 1978 many improvements have been made.

In 1986 the company diversified to include the bending operation. It is now the country's leading producer of solid wood bows for bow back chairs and recently became the largest producer of shaped and sanded solid wood tops.

Nominations for the award are received from an area of the U.S. bounded by Maine and Maryland on the east and Minnesota and Missouri on the west.

By COLISTA MORGAN

The goldfinches have brightened my yard all through the week and the tree swallows have fought over the bird houses, especially the new one on the garage. My neighbor reported seeing a hummingbird.

The arrival of the indigo bunting brought me memories of my childhood. This brilliant garbed little creature frequented the shrubs and trees in our yard. I especially recall a morning woodland excursion when I put the cows into the pasture then because it was hot I went on a path to the woods. The males seemed to love the hot weather and were conspicuous songsters. He seemed delighted in singing. He would sing his way up a tree from bottom to top singing from one branch to another until he reached the topmost spire and there fully exposed to the blazing sun; he would sing and sing. Seldom did I see the female unless I happened to come upon her nest. Her nervous chipping then appraised me of her whereabouts. He seldom did anything; it appeared to me, except to enjoy himself and sing to his master.

For nearly three decades I have been writing this column for the Citizen aside from a hospital stay. I have followed trails through the seasons with enjoyment unabated. I did not know at first what a bargain I had in the bobolinks, thrushes and other birds and animals; little did I know what sublime mornings and sunsets there were.

At first I set them down to please myself, to preserve from the sliding flow of time such things as I would find pleasure in recalling, to catch something of the joy of the out-of-door days, as I wish I could know them always.

Perhaps my aim has always been to achieve for myself and perhaps pass on, delight and joy.

As a painter once told me, "My work gives me one brief moment, caught from fleeting time, a lasting...existence." I think writing has been much the same. If you feel, when you close, that you lived through sunshine and rain, snowstorms and gales, autumn leaves and spring flowers, sunrises and sunsets and lived through thoughts evoked; you have attained the end.

I sometimes wonder if the richness of the world will be overrun and be replaced more and more by plastic artificial substitutes. Sometimes it seems too real. The outcome depends on the wisdom, courage and endurance of those who feel for natural life and the original of the out-of-doors.

I will always remember my many walks over the years, the song of the thrush and white throat sparrow, a fading sunset and the emerging stars. I view all with mixed emotions as they recede into the past. But perhaps by another dawn they will begin again for always there is another spring.

Mothers' Day came with clouds but turned to a good day. There were many gathering of families. I joined the Hols at Ann's home for dinner. There were 13 of us. The Holt children always remember me with beautiful cards and gifts, "to a favorite aunt" so my day is happy, too. The family of John and Dot Betts were with them.

On Thursday, May 7 our club went out to lunch to celebrate our last get-together until fall, as a group. In the evening of the same day I joined the Hols at the farm to honor Fay's birthday with a cake and ice cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mills came from North Haven Island on Sunday morning. They called on my brother, Ernest, in Poland, my sister, Lucy, in Norway then came to my home toward evening and stayed for the night. Monday morning they left for Shapleigh to see their children and grandchildren. They will return to the Island on the ferry, Wednesday, Sunday evening I went with them to visit Rena and Albert Curtis.

New neighbors have moved into the Frank Curtis place.

The rosebreasted grosbeak is my latest newcomer. He arrived early this morning, May 11.

Early Sunday morning, my neighbors, Milton and Eleanor brought me a lovely white carnation, which I wrote to church. I appreciated their thought and I'm glad to have them near.

Since Viva isn't up to writing for the Citizen right now and Peggy isn't around, I, being brother Russell or Joe as I'm often called, will now try to write for the paper, so don't be surprised at what you may read. We've had quite a variety of weather for the last week and several mornings have been cold enough for frost on the pumpkin, if there were any.

Monday, May 4 started out as a cool day but it warmed up quite nice later on. Peggy went to do her card arranging work at Laverdiere's here in South Paris. Yesterday afternoon was a rather sad one as Tom's memorial service was held at Andrew's Funeral Home. After the memorial service, the family members gathered at Lawrence's next door to us. Tom will be greatly missed, not only by members of the family but by all of his many friends. Carroll, better known as Tom, always made friends quite easily so he was well known. The gathering at his memorial service showed us that he had many friends.

Tuesday was rather a cold miserable day. I had to go downtown for physical therapy. I came back home and did some Saturday, May 9 I helped at the Senior Citizens table at the flea market at West Paris, then I got Mary Smith and we went to the 50th wedding anniversary of Bill and Lona Bedard at the Guy E. Rowe cafeteria. A nice program and Richard Felt's band played. A very good crowd, delicious refreshments and the anniversary cake was beautiful. Lona and Bill played some with the orchestra. They play at the nursing homes plus other places. I think they would play every night somewhere. Bill's brother, Eddie Bedard, plays with them.

Phelps and Joan Polands' forsythia bush is just beautiful.

Tuesday, May 12, Joe Vatcher went to Massachusetts to bring his sister, Fannie Whitten for a few weeks visit. Madge is still in Nova Scotia. Her son is real bad.

Wednesday, May 13 Doris Pinkham from Dixfield came and had lunch with me.

Callers here have been Joe Vatcher and Ian Isley, Sharon Silver, Elizabeth Knights, Doris Pinkham, Francis Brooks, Ellen Lindsley, Herman and Thelma Card.

ADMIRING THE ARTWORK--Scores of people turned out Saturday for the Explorations art program's final exhibit of the year. The art students displayed several works in a multitude of mediums. Earlier in the week Monica Mann Magee, who helped organize a benefit auction for the program, presented program instructor Arla Patch with the proceeds from that auction. Local artists donated their works, which were recently auctioned off at the Just Imagine Coffee House. The sale raised over $300 for Explorations. (Photo by Michael Daniels) members gathered on Tuesday evening for their annual supper outing.

The up-coming money making activities were discussed. On May 30 at 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. the E.B. Forbes-Goodwill Group will be holding their annual May Sale at Goodwill Hall of the Universalist Church. Our craft group will have crafts for sale.

This sale is when there will be rhubarb pie, also sandwiches, other homemade goodies, fanciwork, etc.

The annual fir party was planned for and a rummage sale to be held on June 20. The next meeting will be on June 22 with Eleanor Ross for a 6:30 potluck supper.

Sid and Cynthia Scott were at their camp in Stratton last weekend.

Ann Proctor and Miriam Inman were at Stoney Brook, Stratton on Wednesday.

So--don't forget the sale on May 30 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Goodwill Hall.

Frances and Bob Grant visited her cousin, Wilma Taylor in Center Lovell Wednesday.

Geneva Tripp took Gladys to Norway shopping last Monday.

Friday night, May 8 Albert and Eleanor Nelson attended the Hunts Corner cemetery meeting which was held at the home of Alice and Arthur Wardwell. In the middle of the meeting a mother moose and her two young ones walked by the house and stopped and looked at us in the window for quite a long time. They then went strolling along across the field and the cemetery committee resumed their meeting. They are homely creatures but I love to see them. Later in the evening she was standing in a lower field and the two little ones were playing next to the woods.

On Saturday night, May 9 the Stoneham Volunteer Firemen held their booster supper here at the Stoneham Fire Station with a good attendance. Many local people had lucky tickets from the drawing of tickets which took place after the supper.

Our sympathy is with Robin Stevens in the death of her mother, Lillian Martikainen of Harrison.

Albert Fox has a new Plymouth van, which is a pretty dark blue.

Cindy Fox and Fran Hamilton are busy cleaning camps this spring.

Al Yemma is in the Stephens Memorial Hospital where he had surgery on Monday. He will be there for a few days. We hope you will be feeling better soon, Al.

On Tuesday, May 12 the Oxford County Republicans met for their May meeting at the Stoneham Fire Station with Stoneham members hosting the potluck supper. There was a good attendance of 71 members. Several representatives and candidates gave short speeches. A beautiful United States flag was brought in by Kate Flynn which was donated by Olympia Snowe. This was flown over the State Capitol on April 14. This was raffled off and was won by Stan Howe of Bethel. A nice plaque accompanied it.

Opal Tyler, Peggy Coolidge and Floribel Haines were at Senior Citizens in Gorham, N.H. on May 13. The meeting was at the American Legion Hall.

Opal Tyler took Peggy Coolidge to Rumford on May 14.

Flossie Bernier took Chet and Fay Kimball to Portland to see Evelyn Swanson, Chet's sister, on May 12.

Mrs. Ruth Bethel arrived on May 13 from Brooklyn, N.Y. to stay the summer with George and Barbara Bethel.

Arlene Harrington had a house full on May 10: Judy Smith of Buckport, Bob and Gloria Crockett with Aaron and Jason, Esther and Gary Fuller of Locke Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wardwell with Megan of Poland, Wilma Bean with Stacy and Jennifer, Dori Hallman with Heather and Whitney of Durham, Lynn Mason and son, Jay Boschetti, and Carole Mason of Bethel.

Charlie and Polly Smith visited Megan Burgher with her new baby girl at Stephens Memorial Hospital. The new baby girl weighed in at a little over 9 pounds.

Emma Ordway, Charlie's sister, visited from Sebago on May 10 and all had dinner at the Chicken Coop in Mexico.

Chris Olson has graduated from the University of Maine at Orono with a masters degree in teaching. It was a long, hard struggle.

Carrie Olson, daughter of Neil and Linda, is home from college for the summer.

Lorena Simmons and Betty Moore. Marjorie Stinson won the door prize. Members exchanged Mother's Day gifts. Betty Moore and Violet Swain presented each attending with flowers. One member is on her way to Alaska, and will return in time for the annual banquet in September. A decorated birthday cake was served after enjoying several pencil games.

Violet Swain, newly elected State President of the 1918 club, and Robert, were in Sanford on May 9 to attend the annual spring meeting. Over 90 members attended. William Smith is the State vice president. Other officers reside in Windham and Westbrook. The 1918 International Convention, held every two years, will be in Denver, Colo. the first week of June. Twenty-four members plan to attend, plus spouses or guests.

Millie Dufresne, So. Londonderry, Vt. and her husband, attended the meeting and were overnight guests of the Swains.

Dottie H. Enteman, Hudson, Oh. visited last week with her daughter and son-in-law, Leigh Breidenback and Ross Swain at Roxbury Pond.

Congratulations to Andovers graduating seniors: Jeff Bailey, Jennifer Bailey, David Bishop, Derek Brennon, Esau Cooper, Brian Davis, Michael Emerson, Robin Michaud, Thomas Morton, Howard Roberts, David Smith and April Yates.

Mrs. Minnie Akers has returned for the summer from her winter residence in Crystal Beach, Florida.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

The Bear River Grange #285 served a potluck supper Saturday, May 9 with about 20 people participating. Joanne Lapointe, dietetic technician from the Rumford Community Hospital gave a lecture on lowering your cholesterol.

Services at the Newry Community Church were performed Sunday, May 10 with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter, Nancy at the organ. The message for the day was "An ideal Mother" from Pro. 31:10-30, commemorating Mothers' Day. Sylvia Wight read an article from a newspaper of the late 50s written honoring the late Mrs. Ida Wight on Mothers' Day and a reading by Gil Seeley from the book of Samuel. Hannah his mother who was a perfect mother from the olden times.

The Newry Mothers' Club met at the Town Building on May 11 with 13 members present. Vice president Debby Taylor opened the meeting and a prayer for Mothers and Grandmothers was said by Gil Seeley. Secretary/treasurer Peg Wight reported on the last meeting and brought the finances up to date. Sunshine lady Olive Anderson told of sending cards to the shut-ins. A new member, Lisa Vail was added to the club and was put to work right away coordinating the assembling of the Story Land trip for the Newry kids 5 years old and up. Parents should call Lisa 824-3530 at least by the 15th or before the date of the trip of the 22nd so that she will know how many are going. The club will pay their way in only. Please don't show up late...

It was voted to give $100 to the graduates of Newry again as in the past.

There will be a flea market June 13 starting at 10 a.m. at the Town Building. The fee is $5 a table.

The yearly banquet will be June 8 at the Town and Country Inn. Members should leave Newry at 6:30 p.m.

Plans were made for a public supper July 25 at the grange hall starting at 5 p.m. Price is $5 for adults and $3 for children.

Mystery Prize was won by Lisa Vail. Meeting was adjourned and a plant exchange followed. Snack was served by Helen Morton, Nancy Wight and Gil Seeley. Next meeting will be Sept. 14 with election of officers and a tasting party.

The "Newry Bowling Gang" who were at the Oxford Lanes were: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Sylvia Wight and Olive Anderson. Of the "lefties" Betsy was high on the triples and also high on the singles with one string of 104. Of the "righties" Sylvia was high on the triples and Olive was high on the singles.

Louise and I went to the Rumford Community House Health Center last week to visit with Roger and Amy Hanscom and found them well and they say hello to everyone.

Ilus and Cele Knoles and her mother, Mertie Duley stopped at my house in their motor home for an overnight visit on their way to Rangeley and back home in Stark after spending a few days in Vermont and New Hampshire.

Thanks to Francis Brooks for the items given to the Woodstock Historical Society. We appreciate all these donations to this society by our local friends. Thank you again.

Patricia Tibbets, Esther Davis, Edith Deegan, Ethel Davis, Alice Deegan and Michele Deegan attended the Lion's Club Variety Show in Freeport, May 3. Jerry Shorey, who formerly lived in South Woodstock, had much to do in directing the show. Philip House, native of Bryant Pond, was the pianist.

Linwood Andrews has arrived home from the sunny south for the summer.

The monthly Willing Worker's meeting was held May 6 at Esther Davis' home. A potluck supper was enjoyed. Those present were: Tommy Poland, Minna Morgan, Claribel Poland, Mione Record, Esther Davis, Carol Corrievau, Marta Clements and Andrea Wing.

The business included the final plans for the yearly rummage and food sale to be held at the Union Church, South Woodstock. The date is June 13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Anyone wishing to rent a table, June 13, should contact Mione Record at 674-2005 or Marta Clements 674-2143. If you have crafts or other articles to sell, this would be a good time to sell them. Tables will be $5 each.

Members will be contacted for food for the sale.

The next meeting will be held

Wednesday, June 10 at the Union Church. This is a date change. The time for the meeting is 6 p.m. We will be setting up tables and pricing items for the sale June 13. Anyone having items to donate can drop them off June 10, during the meeting. Other items may be dropped off other times if we know in advance or June 13.

Remember: June 13, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Rummage and Food Sale at the Union Church; June 10, Willing Worker's meeting at the Union Church at 6 p.m.

Judith Grover tent #17 met for a regular meeting on Monday, May 11, with 16 members and two guests present, at the Grange Hall. Elena Noyes filled in as guard. Plans were discussed for Memorial Day. Merle ring is speaker. Forty calls were reported. The food sale on May 23 was discussed. This is a food and white elephant sale on Saturday, May 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Bryant Pond Grange Hall. Lunch will be served. Tables to rent are available. JoAnn Crockett read two readings for Mothers' Day. Delegates for Convention were appointed. Althea Stevens and Jane Wardwell for delegates and Phyllis Jordan and JoAnn Crockett for alternates. Next meeting is June 8 with JoAnn Crockett and Elsie Bonney on refreshments. A silent auction was held after the meeting for the Chief of Staff project. A tasting party was held. General Orders #2 was read and General Orders and Rosters were handed out.

At the May meeting of the Historical Society President Ruth Cox conducted the "What's It" program. Some things totally puzzled the members. A silent auction was held. Curator Larry Billings announced donations came from Francis Brooks, Lucia Verrill and Larry himself. The members voted to have a calendar for the coming year. Members signed up to watch the museum for June and July. The June program will be a lecture on "Historical Sketches from Literature." The museum will open June 6. It should be open every Saturday all summer from 1 to 4 p.m. Antiques and memorabilia from the area are on exhibit there. At the opening there will be special showings of the Society's collection of miniatures and costume jewelry. The President and curator will try to be on hand to welcome visitors. The museum building is over 100 years old and has been renovated inside. At one time it was owned by Captain John Dearborn, Civil War hero and early Woodstock millowner. There is no formal admission charge, but donations are gratefully accepted. Society members are reminded that help cleaning the museum would be appreciated.

The Memorial Day Program will be held May 25 at the Honor Roll by the Grange Hall. Program starts at 1 p.m. with speaker Merle Ring. Parade follows to the cemetery and back, with everyone welcome to watch or to march. This is sponsored by the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

The Woodstock Alumni Banquet will be held at Telstar High School cafeteria on Saturday, June 6 at 6 p.m. Special guests are Telstar 1992 graduates and classes of 1922, 1932 and 1942. Scholarships will be awarded at this time.

Beatrice Farnum went with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Chase and Crystal, Helen Chase and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens, Keith, Jenny and Danny to her grandsons, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Chase and Liza for dinner on Sunday.

MUNDT-ALLEN AMERICAN LEGION Installing Sergeant at Arms M. Brooks and Installing Officer V. Arms Harry Buswell, Chaplain E. Vice Officer Joe Taylor, Finance

DEP representative Parker, was reviewed by Greenwood selectmen last week. Parker listed five violations, including:

No permanent metal posts visible at the corners of the facility's three tire storage cells--A, B, and C.

The tires in cells A and B are not separated by a mineral soil strip of 35 feet.

The northern boundary of cell A is less than 250 feet from the property boundary.

All three cells are too close to the wooded buffer strip.

Several thousand tires have been piled near cell C in an unapproved area labeled cell D.

Parker wrote that the violations are "linked directly to the quantities of tires being brought into the facility and the comparatively small number of scrap tires being exported from the facility."

"According to the information received at the Department on April 2, 1992, for the first three months of 1992, only 8,200 tires were moved out of the Greenwood facility, compared to 21,900 taken in. Given that the facility's storage capacity has already been exceeded, the import of any additional scrap tires on serves to compound the problem."

"Continued non compliance with the condition of your license will be given due consideration and may weigh heavily against you during any future proposals for expansion and relicensing at the time your present license expires. Additionally, the (DEP) may elect to pursue consent agreement which will carry mandatory corrective actions and monetary penalties."

Town boards

While the Gordons continue to struggle to comply with the DEP license, they are also trying to get together their application for a town permit.

But meanwhile the town's planning board and selectmen are squabbling over what actions need to be taken in the case--and who should initiate it.

At their May 4 meeting, the planning board told Susan Gordon her application was incomplete and decided to turn the matter over to the selectmen.

Vice-chairman Stacy Benjamin said the board has no enforcement powers over the facility. The planning board, which has set a May 4 deadline for receiving a completed application, is reviewing the plan--not what's on the ground out there."

DEP representative Parker, was reviewed by Greenwood selectmen last week. Parker listed five violations, including:

No permanent metal posts visible at the corners of the facility's three tire storage cells--A, B, and C.

The tires in cells A and B are not separated by a mineral soil strip of 35 feet.

The northern boundary of cell A is less than 250 feet from the property boundary.

All three cells are too close to the wooded buffer strip.

Several thousand tires have been piled near cell C in an unapproved area labeled cell D.

Parker wrote that the violations are "linked directly to the quantities of tires being brought into the facility and the comparatively small number of scrap tires being exported from the facility."

"According to the information received at the Department on April 2, 1992, for the first three months of 1992, only 8,200 tires were moved out of the Greenwood facility, compared to 21,900 taken in. Given that the facility's storage capacity has already been exceeded, the import of any additional scrap tires only serves to compound the problem."

"Continued non compliance with the condition of your license will be given due consideration and may weigh heavily against you during any future proposals for expansion and relicensing at the time your present license expires. Additionally, the (DEP) may elect to pursue a consent agreement which will carry mandatory corrective actions and monetary penalties."

Town boards passing the buck

While the Gordons continue to struggle to comply with their DEP license, they are also trying to get together their application for a town permit.

But meanwhile the town's planning board and selectmen are squabbling over what action needs to be taken in the case--and who should initiate it.

At their May 4 meeting, the planning board told Susan Gordon her application was incomplete and decided to turn the matter over to the selectmen.

Vice-chairman Stacy Benjamin said the board has no enforcement powers over the facility. The planning board, which had set a May 4 deadline for receiving a completed application, is a review board, not an enforcement agency she said.

"Even if we approved their plan," she said, "we'd only be approving the plan--not what's on the ground out there."

But Selectman Marie Bartlett said the next step is up to the planning board. She said she's waiting for formal written notification that the permit is incomplete, before taking any fur-

Parker outlined three cleanup deadlines for facility owners to meet.

By Aug. 1, remove all tires from all three cells as necessary to contain them within 100-by-100-by-20-foot cell boundaries and establish 35 foot setback distance between the cells, 50 feet from tree line and 150 feet from property lines.

By Nov. 1, establish permanent corner markers for all three cells and remove all tires from unapproved cell "D" area.

Any tires removed from the site must be delivered to a DEP-approved disposal facility. A copy of each bill of lading or manifest for each load sent to the DEP within 10 days of it leaving the facility.

Susan Gordon said she blames delays in licensing process for part of the facility's noncompliance. She said work crews have begun cleanup, but she's not sure they can meet the deadlines.

"I'm going to try to do what I can. The process put us out of compliance by making us wait so long. I didn't use all these tires and neither did Peter. If they shut us down, where are these tires going to go? We tried to go through the process, but the system has failed us."

"I'm trying to get a variance for the height of the first pile--pile A," she said. "Cell A has overflowed into cell B, but I feel that's the DEP fault because it took so long for them to issue us a license."

"They told us we couldn't go to cell B until we got our license, so our only choice was to expand cell A or shut down."

"We started with nine employees and now we have five. I don't see how we're going to do it. If they close us down, the only ones that will be left to move tires is Peter and I."

enable us to open in time for the ski season," Merrill said Thursday.

Characterizing the project as "a turn-key type of deal," Merrill said his company has agreed to purchase the property, and construct the building, on behalf of another as-yet-unnamed business interest.

"At this point, I'm hesitant to say who the actual owner would be," Merrill said.

Although his company has generally restricted its involvement in real estate development projects to consulting, Merrill said he's been eager "to take advantage of the opportunities in the area" for some time.

While expressing approval for the project's preliminary outline, the Planning Board cautioned Merrill Wednesday, that in advance of purchasing any property he should consider the variety of issues related to a particular property's suitability for this type of development. Specifically, the board said it intends to look carefully at the property's proximity to the 100-year floodplain, the project's proposed subsurface septic design, its impact on local traffic patterns, and drainage in the area.

Merrill said he was delighted with the response of the board.

"I was very pleased with the meeting," Merrill said. "They want a good development and seem anxious to make it happen."

Merrill, who indicated he is looking at three different properties along the Sunday River Road, said he would return to the board as soon as he is able to "put a deal together."

Also Wednesday, the board looked over sketches of Bethel resident Keith Durgin's proposed stump dump and truck garage.

According to Bethel Planning Assistant Stacy Benjamin, the stump dump, to be located on Old Grover Hill Road, will not be a public facility.

The board requested copies of the development plan for the stump dump and Durgin's application to the Maine Department of Environmental Protection, Benjamin said.

The 50-by-60-foot truck garage, to be located on Route 2 across from the Mill House, will have to go through the site plan review process, Benjamin said.

Also Wednesday, the board postponed final action on a permit for Ti-Smith's, a proposed mail-order bicycle frame business to be sited in the former C.N. Brown building at the corner of Vernon and Main Streets.

year during the two year's of Paul's lease.

If the town does not get the federal money, Henley said, it still stands to net approximately $6,000 a year from the lease agreement.

But, according to Reich, the chance for new jobs, not profit, was the major consideration in the AIPC discussion of Paul's offer.

Paul has made no firm commitment on the actual number of jobs, Reich said, but he has estimated that in the first year he will add nine or ten full-time employees to his screen-printing operation, and another eight will be added during the second year.

Paul (who was out of town and unavailable for comment Monday and Tuesday) reportedly plans to move his screen printing business from its current location in West Bethel to the new building, and to use the additional space in the new building to expand into other printing lines, such as fine arts, posters, novelty items and additional types of apparel.

He has said he will keep his retail operation, Groan & McGurn, at its current location, and perhaps expand the product lines offered there.

Final details of the lease-purchase agreement were due to be hammered out at a meeting this morning (Wednesday) among the Bethel selectmen, Paul and the Bethel Savings Bank, which is financing the purchase.

Groan & McGurn has been in business since 1974, and, Reich said, the opportunity to help a successful local business expand was another major factor in the AIPC's recommendation to approve Paul's offer.

Reich noted that in the past other local business had been unsuccessful in getting help from the town, and had subsequently gone out of business.

"We didn't want to see that happen again," Reich said.

Noting that Paul's efforts to expand had been hampered by space restrictions at his present location, Reich said, "This is an existing local business that wanted to expand and stay in the area. That weighed heavily in its favor."

"That," Reich said, "and the fact that nobody else was banging down the door."

Other potential tenants or buyers had looked into the property, Reich said, but Paul had been enthusiastic since first learning of the town's purchase.

Paul made his first formal offer in mid-April and has been negotiating with the AIPC since then.

Monday night's vote by the selectmen to accept the offer was unanimous. (First selectmen Arlan Jodrey was not present at the meeting.)

Bethel selectmen study parking options

In other business at their meeting Monday, the Bethel selectmen voted to study the town's parking options for the lot behind the fire station.

Selectmen Norman Putnam and Henry Dombkowski inspected the site recently and determined that with a modest amount of work the lot could be made to accommodate more than 30 cars. Still more cars could be accommodated if a 20-by-100 foot strip of land bordering the lot could be acquired from its present owner, Gould Academy.

The parking lot study was prompted by the town planning board's recent review of the parking implications of the town office renovations. The planning board's review had in turn been forced by business owner Rick Whitney's complaint that the town set about the renovations without bothering to obtain planning board approval.

The parking situation was further complicated last week, when the town received a letter from the Bethel Savings Bank, which owns the parking lot behind the bank and town office building, announcing that as of June 1 each of the three Cole Block occupants (the town, W.J. Wheeler Insurance and The Citizen Press) would be allocated only one space in the lot.

A fourth parking space would be allocated for the Bethel Police Department.

In its letter, the Bank explained that the parking spaces were needed for its customers and staff.

Pesticide board issues DEET warning

Few Mainers' tackle boxes or utility drawers are without one insect repellent or another. The Maine Board of Pesticides Control urges consumers to use care when applying products containing N, N-diethyl-m-toluamide, commonly known as DEET. This announcement stems from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) ordering DEET producers and registrants to add precautionary language to directions for use found on products' labels. Reports of adverse health reactions from topical use of DEET products prompted the EPA to require these changes last autumn.

The label changes must appear on DEET products manufactured after Aug. 30.

"That's one black fly season away," notes Paul Gregory, Public Information Officer for the BPC. "Because folks may use DEET products purchased last year or before Aug. 31 deadline, we feel it important to share expected label directions as this year's biting fly season begins. These new directions should be followed along with those already shown on the repellent intended for use."

The label revisions, which the EPA said will decrease the likelihood of adverse health effects, are to include the following Directions for Use on DEET products destined for human use:

Do not spray in enclosed areas (for sprays and aerosols only).

Do not apply over cuts, wounds or irritated skin.

Do not apply to eyes and mouth and do not apply to the hands of young children. do not spray directly on face.

Use just enough repellent to cover exposed skin and/or clothing. Do not use under clothing. Avoid overexposure. Frequent reapplication and saturation is unnecessary for effectiveness.

After returning indoors, wash treated skin with soap and water. Wash treated clothing.

Use of this product may cause skin reactions in rare cases. If you suspect that you or your child is reacting to this product, wash treated skin and call your local poison control center.

GYPSY MOTH SPRAYING

Just as the winter of 1991-92 enters history books as one of the mildest on record, foresters, home and camp owners, and lake associations are bracing themselves for the coming warm weather. Their reason: This latest in a series of mild winters, say forest entomologists, will encourage another summer of gypsy moth and hemlock looper infestations.

At stake is defoliation of hundreds of thousands of acres of hardwood, hemlock, balsam fir and white spruce.

Landowners in the path of new or repeated infestations are turning to professional insect-control service who spray pesticides—a practice which in the past has caused unease for some neighbors, especially if they are caught by surprise.

"The element of surprise has often been the flashpoint between applicators and the general public," said Bob Bateese, director of the Maine Board of Pesticides Control (BPC). "Our regulations try to stem these problems by opening a line of communication between them."

In situations involving aerial use of pesticides to control ornamental pests such as gypsy moth and hemlock looper, the applicator must ensure that the person contracting for services has notified the general public. Prior to treatment, this individual must publish an advertisement in a local newspaper explaining the area to be sprayed, name, address and phone number of the landowner or applicator for further information, intended dates and purpose of the application, precautionary language found on the pesticide labels pertaining to the public, and telephone numbers of the Maine Poison Control Center and the BPC. This notice must appear between 60 and 3 days before the application.

Further, the aerial applicator must assure that written notices are sent to persons owning property or using commercial or institutional buildings within 500 feet of the site intended for treatment. This notice must include the same information and be distributed within the same time frame as required for newspaper advertisement. In most cases, aerial applicators require their customers to distribute written notices to neighbors.

"The unexpected, tree-height overflight of a helicopter or airplane can be pretty alarming. Notification seeks to defuse this problem. Also, homeowners can take whatever actions they feel warranted, such as taking in the laundry, closing windows or keeping children and pets indoors."

Aerial applicators also benefit by these rules, Bateese said. "Too often, people—especially children—think the treatment is a free airshow if they are unaware of the intent of the overflight. Such spectators force the pilot to cease operation because laws forbid unauthorized exposure. Notification solves this problem, enabling the applicator to do the job he's paid to do while still preventing bystander exposure to pesticides."

The burden of notification shifts, however, when pesticides are sprayed with powered equipment from the ground. According to regulations, a landowner within 500 feet of a site of application is entitled to notification from the individual contracting the spray service. However, the landowner seeking notification must take the first step by making a request. Notification must be given within at least one day of treatment.

"This rule was designed to meet needs of agricultural regions of the state where the public expects spraying to occur. One reason it works well is because the landowner and the applicator are usually the same person; all one needs to do is approach the neighboring grower," Bateese said.

"The same notification rule gets a little dicey for gypsy moth and hemlock looper control because such applications are not normal occurrences," Bateese added. "In densely populated settings, the 500-foot rule may put the individual seeking notification within range of several properties intended for spray. That can involve several landowners who must be approached for notification requests."

Concerned individuals living in areas of high gypsy moth and hemlock looper infestations are urged to ask neighbors if they intend to contract professional pesticide spray services.

TELSTAR GIRL SCOUTS

The Rumford/Mexico Memorial Day Parade will take place on Monday, May 25. All Girl Scouts and adults in charge are reminded to meet behind the Muskie Building Canal Street by 9 a.m. The parade will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The next adult Girl Scout volunteer meeting will be held Wednesday evening, May 27 at 6:
p.m. at the Mexico Congregation
Church. The end-of-the-year treasurer's and inventory report will be due. Plans will be made for the leader's outing June 5 and 6.
Mrs. Richard's camp on Worth-
Pond. Please let Diane Milligan know by June 1 if you plan to attend. The camporee will be June 2 27, and 28 and more information will be available at this meeting by calling Karen Murphy or Les Cooley.

All people involved with Telstar Girl Scout Day Camp training are reminded that another session will be held on Monday, June 1, at 6:
p.m. at the Mexico Congregation
Church.

STONEHAM BREAKFAST

Stoneham Rescue Service will present its annual Memorial Day Weekend Breakfast on Sunday, May 24 from 7 to 10:30 a.m. at the Rue Barn on the corner of Route and the Butter's Hill Road in El Stoneham.

The menu will include blueberry and plain pancakes, french toast, eggs, bacon, sausage, toast, homemade muffins, orange juice and coffee, tea, or hot chocolate.

The price (which includes 15 seconds) is $4 for adults, $3 for children under 12, and free for children

(Green Church).

All Service Unit members and area leaders are invited to help plan next year's calendar and recruit needs. This is very important as each member town should send least one representative to this meeting.

Nano Scott-Zachary will be hand to answer any questions you might have.

Each troop should send a summary of all their activities—(i.e., taken, service projects done, special events held, etc.). This is to be used in a Telstar Service Unit
Newsletter to be published the first week of June.

MAILBOX REPAIR WEEK

Each year the Postal Service designates a week in May to encourage customers on rural, city and box contract delivery routes examine their mailboxes for improvements.

May 18-23 is this year's designated mailbox improvement week. The post office asks customers to take few minutes to check their mailboxes for repairs that may be needed.
The local office will not repair customers of any repairs carried feel are necessary.

According to a landowner within 500 feet of a site of application is to notification from the individual contracting the spray service. The landowner seeking notification must take the first step by requesting notification within at least one day of notification.

The rule was designed to meet the needs of agricultural regions of the state where the public expects spray-occurs. One reason it works is because the landowner and applicator are usually the same person. All one needs to do is approach the neighboring grower," he said.

The same notification rule gets a boost for gypsy moth and hemlock looper control because such applications are not normal occurrences. Bateese added, "In densely wooded settings, the 500-foot rule is not within range of several individuals intended for spray. That involves several landowners who are approached for notification."

Concerned individuals living in the area of high gypsy moth and hemlock looper infestations are urged to neighbors if they intend to contact professional pesticide spray-

ALBANY CHURCH PLANS SUMMER ACTIVITIES

At the semi-annual meeting of the Albany Community Church, May 4, it was voted to accept the Pulpit Committee's recommendation to call Peter Parent as summer pastor.

Parent is a licensed minister who served in the Oxford County United Parish from 1975-78. He currently also serves the Stow Baptist Church. He is a graduate of Glen Cove Bible College; has a bachelor's degree in secondary education from the University of Maine at Orono, and is working on a masters degree in exceptional education at the University of Southern Maine. He works as a teacher assistant at Lake Region Middle School, Bridgton in the special education room.

His wife, Pat worked this past winter as the manager of the Day Care Center at Sunday River Ski Resort. She serves as choir director at the Methodist Church in Conway, N.H. They reside with their son, Aaron, in Albany. The Parents have provided special music at Albany Church events in the past and are enthusiastic about serving in our church and community.

Worship services will begin Sunday, May 31, with a Memorial Service at 7 p.m. Floral arrangements in memory of loved ones are welcomed. This service will be followed by a coffee hour, providing an opportunity for Pastor and Mrs. Parent and the congregation to get better acquainted.

Regular services will begin Sunday, June 7 at 9 a.m. (please note new time) and continue through Sunday, Sept. 27. Edna York will again be arranging special music for our services. Communion will be celebrated the first Sunday of each month. Baptisms may be arranged.

Public suppers are planned by the Ladies Circle and Diaconate for Thursdays, June 25, July 9 and 23, August 6 and 20, beginning at 5:30 p.m. Proceeds are used to support missions both local and abroad, a scholarship fund, and upkeep of the Church and Round Mountain Community Hall.

Anyone interested in more information about the summer activities is asked to write P.O. Box 224, Bethel, or to call the following: Jane Wardwell 824-2533, Margaret Barton 824-2834, or Kathy Bennett 824-2797.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

The Bethel U.M.W. met Thursday, May 7 at 1 p.m. in the church dining room. Meeting opened by Lyndell Carter, vice president. An opening prayer was offered by Muriel Faudi. The flag salute with our new flag, donated by Carolyn Brooks.

Plans were discussed of the opening of the Friday Gift Shop on June 12. Sixteen people were present. Fifty-four sick calls were noted. Sara Cowan and Myrtle Bibber were guests. Linda Saunders is a new member. Thank you cards were received from Lisa and Frances. Memorials came from Jennie Jones and Elvin Wilson. Birthdays in May are: Lisa Vonderheide, Joan Howe, Diane Cross, Laura Plawlock and Rachel McKay.

Sara Cowan gave an interesting and informative talk on "Foreign Missions." Delicious refreshments were served by hostesses: Sarah Stevens and Frances Saunders. The next meeting is June 4 at noon with a potluck dinner. Beth Arcuni is in charge. This will be the last meeting until September.

MAKE RESERVATIONS NOW FOR YMCA ROAD RACE

The Oxford Hills YMCA is now taking registrations for their 13th annual "Woody Allen Memorial Road Race" which will be held on Sunday, May 31. Open to all ages, this fun-filled community event and Y fundraiser is in memory of civic leader, Woody Allen of South Paris and consists of a 5K race and a 1 Mile Fun Run.

Sponsored by Corporate Champion, Norway Savings Bank, the 1 Mile Race will begin at noon from Norway Savings on Main Street in Norway, and the divisions are 12 and under, 13-16, 17-35, 36 and over. The 5K Race will start right after and the divisions are 15 and under, 16-25, 26-35, 36-45 and 46 and over. Trophies or ribbons will be awarded to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in each division in both races for male and female, plus for the youngest and oldest participant overall. Both races will start and finish at Norway Savings Bank and water stops and safety services will be available. T-shirts guaranteed for those who pre-register by May 27.

This will be a fun day for the whole family. Those not interested in competitive racing are welcome to register to walk the courses for fun, fresh air and exercise. The entry fee is $5 for the 1 mile race and $8 for the 5K race. Call the YMCA 743-7184 for more information or for registration forms.

JOSEPH F. DEMARCO NEW CHIROPRACTOR SETS UP SHOP IN BETHEL

Dr. Joseph F. DeMarco has recently taken over the practice of the Bethel Chiropractic Health Center. Dr. DeMarco is a graduate of Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa. He also has a B.S. degree in exercise physiology from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, Mass. He externed at the Palmer Chiropractic Clinic in Davenport, Iowa, one of the largest outpatient chiropractic clinics in the country.

Most recently, Dr. DeMarco was in private practice in the Boston area. He is certified by the National Board of Chiropractic Examiners.

over 80 and 1 over 90.

Barbara Douglass, who spoke on the Club, and Sarah Stevens were honored Charter members as well as Gladys Cross, who is at Ledgerview. Birthdays were: Joan Coolidge, Elsie Bennett, Monique Rolfe, Barbara H. Brown, Louise Twitchell and Earlon Keniston.

Avis Dooen, Francis (Albert) Bennett and Muriel Faudi are on the sick list.

Lindley Wieden provided information on the upcoming bus trip Wednesday, June 24 to the Castle-in-the-clouds at Moultenboro, N.H., lunch at Hart's Turkey Farm in Meredith and a visit to the Anna Lee Doll Museum. The bus will leave the Health Center at 8:30 and return by 4:30. Call Helen Saunders or Lindley Wieden for information and reservations.

After a delicious chicken pie dinner, Virginia Walker entertained us with a report of her trip to Hawaii including slides and stories.

The June meeting will be at Follett's in Oxford, opposite Ames on the 10th.

ANDROSCOGGIN RIVER RACE SET FOR JUNE

The second annual Androscoggin River Race sponsored by the Three Rivers Sportsman's Club will be held June 20.

The race starts at the Route 2 bridge over the Androscoggin in Bethel and finishes 12 miles down river at the Rumford Point bridge.

Participants can register the day of the race between 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. Racers are asked to donate $10 per canoe. The race begins at noon.

Further race information is available at 364-2264 or 364-4697 or by writing to Three Rivers Sportsman's Club, Box 45, Hanover, Maine 04237.

the Maine Chiropractic Board, and the Massachusetts Board of Registration of Chiropractors.

Dr. DeMarco's practice will be geared to service all aspects of back, neck, leg, and arm pain, sports related problems such as aching shoulders, wrists, and ankles, as well as chiropractic care for the entire family. He said he knows the importance role that proper chiropractic care can play in one's life, since he was an accomplished gymnast at the University of Massachusetts and most recently has become an amateur body builder, having won the 1989 Illinois-Iowa Body Building Championship and the 1990 Mr. Continental U.S.A. title.

Dr. DeMarco said he looks forward to settling in the Bethel area and serving his community.

PATIENT APPRECIATION DAY AT BETHEL CHIROPRACTIC

To help celebrate Correct Posture Month, on Thursday, May 28, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Bethel Chiropractic will conduct a Patient Appreciation Day.

On this day, Bethel Chiropractic will provide chiropractic services in exchange for a $10 donation to the American Diabetes Association.

Individuals who are interested in taking advantage of this opportunity are encouraged to call Bethel Chiropractic for an appointment at 824-3899 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The Bethel Art Fair Committee is busy fundraising to cover costs related to the operation of the fair. They are selling program sponsorships for $25 which entitles the sponsor to having their name printed in the program which will be distributed throughout the area and at the art fair on Saturday, June 27, (rain date, Sunday, June 28). If you are interested in supporting this great event and helping to expand and improve it, please call chairwomen Rene McGrew at Frame n' Art in Bethel at 824-3020, soon.

Golf tournament applications are printed. The third annual Chamber Challenge Tournament will be held on Tuesday, July 7, at the Bethel Inn with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. Entry is $60 per person/$240 per foursome which entitles you to 18 holes of golf, a cart rental, a delicious barbecue dinner and a chance at winning one of the great prizes. The prize package is valued at more than $2,000 which includes two round trip tickets on Delta Air Lines to any of their destinations in the Continental U.S. This will again be awarded as a "blind draw" which means you do not have to be one of the winners of tournament play. We are also offering a $12,000 car to the first Hole in One on Hole #16. You can pick up a tournament application at the chamber office or at the Bethel Inn Pro Shop. We urge preregistration, as we are expecting to sell out this year. Many thanks to Jeff Sterling of the Sunday River graphics department for typesetting the tournament application.

Many thanks to the Marketing and Advertising Committee members for meeting last Wednesday to brainstorm some opportunities to advertise this area in the summer. It was decided to develop a new logo for the area which Sunday River has offered to do. It will read "The Gateway to the Mountains of Maine." Sharon McNeil, local photographer, has volunteered to expand the chamber's library of slides and photographs so we can use them for press releases. She has also offered to write press releases for us. Many thanks, Sharon. It was also

Rotary Club notes

Marcie Tupper, kindergarten teacher at the Crescent Park School in Bethel, was the guest presenter at the May 12 Bethel Rotary Club breakfast meeting.

Marcie had a great opportunity to teach third grade at a school in Haiti a few years ago. This experience allowed her to get to know the Haitian culture and people. Haiti, although it is known to be the poorest of nations, is geographically very beautiful. She found the people to be very friendly and non-violent, even though there was political unrest occurring at the time of her stay. Marcie showed a slide presentation which confirmed her comments on the beauty and economic diversity within the country. It was a very informative and interesting presentation.

Guests of the morning were Mike Thurston of Rumbold; Malcolm Vertigan of Auburn/Lewiston; Alan Burnell of Harrison; and Terry and Joe DeMarco of Bethel.

Many congratulations to Tamara and David Smith on the birth of their daughter, Madison Rae Smith. We are sorry to see David and Tamara leave the area but we wish them the best in their future lives together.

Low Doses of Aspirin Following Stroke

Numerous reports have occurred in the medical literature in recent years regarding the value of daily doses of aspirin in preventing heart attacks. The use of aspirin to prevent heart attacks is associated with the drug's ability to prevent the accumulation and clumping of platelets in the blood.

Studies also show the value of aspirin in the prevention of transient ischemic attacks (TIAs) and strokes. Aspirin doses of 300 mg to 1,500 mg have been reported to produce this protective effect. According to a recent issue of New England Journal of Medicine, as little as 30 mg of aspirin daily will inhibit the clumping of platelets with fewer gastrointestinal side effects.

According to the article, the lower dose of aspirin has less tendency to disturb an enzyme in the stomach lining. The result is less gastric discomfort. Patients receiving 30 mg of aspirin daily also experienced less minor bleeding, fewer major bleeding episodes, and less death-related bleeding when compared to those in the study group who received over 200 mg. Reducing the dose did not appear to eliminate allergic reactions to aspirin, however. Researchers indicate that the first dose of aspirin for stroke and TIA prevention should be 120 mg, followed by the 30 mg daily dose.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Jesus said, "I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not overcome it." (Matt. 16:18b NIV). He is building his church one brick at a time. The growth of his church begins with the growth of its' individual members. The only way a person becomes a part of Christ's Church is by being born-again (John 3:3). No one oozes into the spiritual life. You must first repent (resolve to correct one's life as a result of sincere sorrow for one's sins). Secondly, you must pray and ask God to forgive you of your sins (1 John 1:9). Third, you must ask Jesus to take control of your life. A person is spiritually born by their trusting in Christ as their Saviour, in order to produce works of righteousness for Christ.

The person who has been spiritually reborn will desire to know the Living Christ more intimately. Therefore I shall briefly mention some ways for a Believer to grow spiritually.

Personal Bible Study--Study the Bible so that you can apply its' truth to your everyday life.

Prayer--Regular fellowship and communion with God. Giving him praise and letting him know your requests.

Christian Fellowship--Spending time with your spiritual family to encourage your spiritual brothers and sisters and vice versa.

Worship--Gathering together with other spiritual believers and practicing worship will remind you of God's holiness, majesty, and his love for us. As you quiet your heart, then God's spirit will meet your inner needs.

Witnessing--Sharing with others by word and deed the hope that Jesus gives to you daily.

Trusting God--Trusting God on a minute-by-minute basis daily. Obedience--Saying yes to God and doing what he asks you to do. Be diligent in these matters; give yourself wholly to them, so that everyone may see your progress. 1 Timothy 4:15.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Samuel F. McCoy extends grateful thanks to all relatives, friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy, cards, flowers, and other contributions; to Rev. Brendon Bass for his help and kindness; to the doctors and nurses at Stephens Memorial Hospital for their wonderful care; to Bethel Rescue; to American Legion Mundt-Allen Post 81 of Bethel, and to all others who have helped us during this time of bereavement.

IN MEMORY OF

Larry S. Cummings
who died Friday, May 24, 1991

God saw you getting tired
A cure was not to be.
So he put his arms around you and whispered "Come with me."
With tearful eyes we watched and saw you pass away.
Although we loved you dearly
We could not make you stay.
Always a lonely heartache
Often a silent tear.
But always a living memory
Of someone we loved so dear.

Sadly missed by
Mom, Pip, Joyce and Sonny

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank DiAnne Leighton of DeepWood Farm for donating her time to teach us about horse care and basic riding skills.

A MEMORIAL DAY TRIBUTE To Our Father Bob Lowe Who Passed Away June 28, 1990

Twenty Three months have gone by and it's Memorial Day. We'll march up Main Street in our patriotic way. But something is now different and it is all too clear. You will not be in formation with the Legion this year. A parade never went by that you were not there. To carry the flag or the rifle you would bear. You were a patriot, something most people knew. A wonderful symbol for the Red, White & Blue. You have now joined the elite with the flag by your stone. Symbolizing your courage for your country you've shown. A flag doesn't wave That I don't think of you. A day doesn't pass that we don't miss you. Your children and grandchildren will never miss this day. We'll march with the Legion in our patriotic way. And although you're not here May we help lead the way. For you and your comrades on this and every Memorial Day!

Love,
Janie, Phil, Monica, & Carrie

STATE BIOLOGIST HOOKS SPENT NORTHERN PIKE

A fishery biologist on his day off recently furthered his knowledge about the habits of a relatively new fish species in Maine.

Bill Woodward, assistant regional fisheries biologist for the Belgrade Lakes area, spent a March day ice fishing with several friends at North Pond in Smithfield. It was a slow day, with no action for Woodward until late in the afternoon when a tip-up indicated a strike.

After a 10-minute battle, Woodward landed a 33.5-inch, 8-pound, 7-ounce northern pike.

The winter-long survey of northern pike has been conducted on weekends to gather information on catch rates, food habits, growth and sexual maturity of the species, which began appearing in the Belgrade chain of lakes a decade ago--due to an illegal introduction.

Woodward notes that sometimes even a day off can provide information useful to fisheries managers. Later in the day he caught a second northern pike, weighing 7 pounds, and 28.5 inches long, which he released alive.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my family and friends for the many kindnesses shown me during my stay in the hospital and since my return home. Dr. Storey and Dr. Eshlemen and the staff at Stephens Memorial Hospital for their fine care, for telephone calls, visits, flowers and food. It was greatly appreciated. A special thank you to my sister, Alta Smith and husband and my husband Bill, for taking such good care of me.

IRS Adjusts Numbers for Inflation

This article is brought to you by Jane D. Gray, CPA

The tax law requires the IRS to adjust certain tax numbers annually for inflation. Clip and save these 1992 numbers; you'll need them for this year's tax planning.

The income tax brackets for 1992 have been adjusted as follows:

15% TAX RATE

Single $1-21,450

Married (joint) $1-35,800

Head of Household $1-28,750

28% TAX RATE

Single $21,451-51,900

Married (joint) $35,801-86,500

Head of Household $28,751-74,150

31% TAX RATE

Single Over $51,900

Married (joint) Over $86,500

Head of Household Over $74,150

The deduction for each personal exemption increases in 1992 to $2,300.

Standard deduction for each personal exemption increases in 1992 as follows:

Joint returns & surviving spouses... $6,000

Married filing separately...$3,000

Head of Household...$5,250

Single...$3,600

The standard deduction is increased by $700 for a married taxpayer age 65 or older or blind ($1,400 if both 65 and blind). It's increased by $900 for single taxpayers age 65 or older or blind ($1,800 if both 65 and blind).

In 1992, children under the age of 14 are allowed to have $1,200 of unearned income before the kiddie tax applies. Also adjusted for inflation is the amount of income taxpayers can earn before they begin to lose the tax-free exemption for college bond interest. The income levels increased to $66,200 for married taxpayers and to $44,150 for singles.

The maximum contribution that taxpayers can make to 401(k) plans increases in 1992 to $8,728.

The gross injustice that has been perpetrated on Mr. King has also been equally exerted upon many of us here in Maine. The practices all seem to be similar, especially in view of the several murders and attempted murders committed by our own police in recent years; all also white washed over by our A.G.'s office. Most of our media here in Maine, that only serves as a P.R. firm for the state of Maine, doesn't help matters either. When in God's name are they going to start calling the shots as they really are, and let people know the truth? What are they afraid of, and why all the cover-up? We should all wonder why, and where it will lead us. Any Maine citizen could be next.

Although I serve out a provably wrongful conviction, from a Maine miscarriage of justice, my hope and my work go on. My hope is for a positive, rightful change, and I work for that through being an NAACP board member, and press card holder, for what its worth.

Years ago I resigned a post with a Maine Sheriffs Dept., because I could not agree with all the injustice, corruption, entrapments, and yes, even brutality. No presently employed officer, or ex-officer on a pension would have the courage to speak out. The retribution and retaliation would probably kill him. But it is real, and alive, and well here in Vacationland, where the second largest industry is government employment. Most of the employment in Maine is with the proverbial state. We must make changes, and the time is now. So, do something about it now. Thank you, and God bless you.

In Loving Memory Of Alanson Cummings Charles Mason II Warren Smith

To whom Memorial Day was a very Special Day. They will be greatly missed by their friends and family.

Fannie L. Cummings
"WHO IS THAT MAN?"

There's a patriotic man living in our town.
he could be a banker, fireman, or clown.
He's not a flagburner with long hippie hair.
no, this man is a Legionnaire.
He works hard and does it well.
an honest man, anyone can tell.

He has a family, they don't mind him to share

After all he's a Legionnaire

Once a month you'll find him at the Legion Hall, saluting the flag and standing tall

Serving his community and his Post, doing his part without any boast.

Once in a while he tells a war story,
how he fought for his country and raised Old Glory.

Who is this man with that distinctive flair?

That man is a Legionnaire.

When hostilities threaten the U.S. of A.,
he's ready to fight come night or day.

He knows how, he's been there before.
He answered his country and went off to war.

He fought in War One or maybe Two, others went to 'Nam and Korea too.

Who are these men who dare to care?

Didn't you know? They're Legionnaires

On Memorial Day he tends the flags, part of his duty, of the heroes he brags

When a veteran falls and life ends, the rifle he fires and honor he tends

And to his comrade he gives his respect, he folds his flag and does it correct

Who is this man amid bugle blares?

That man is a Legionnaire.

To let him rest in peace when the Good Lord raps, drape a flag over his coffin and slowly blow taps.

Who is that Bluecap saluting up there?

Why, that man is a Legionnaire.
